With this purchase, you join thousands of other individuals and hundreds of facilities worldwide who have chosen to use SunBox products. Thank you for choosing The SunBox Company as your bright light source. We truly value your business.

SunBoxes are the most advanced and the highest quality bright light boxes on the market today and are backed by a lifetime warranty - the longest in the industry. Founded in 1985, The SunBox Company is the original manufacturer of high-intensity light boxes. We constantly strive for excellence and are proud of our products and service.

The SunBox DL is one of our most compact models, and it is styled to be unobtrusive in an office setting. It's design allows it to be used as both a bright light source and as a task light.

IMPORTANT NOTES:

- Please save all packing materials for reuse in the event that you have to return your unit to us. The SunBox Company cannot be responsible for damage due to insufficient packing.
- Occasionally, fluorescent lamps may break or become loose in shipping. If the fixture does not light, see the instructions for replacing the bulb.
- In the event that your unit is damaged or broken upon delivery, immediately report the problem by calling 1-800-548-3968 or 301-869-5980 so the problem can be resolved. This should be done within 5 days after you receive the unit.
- Please take the time to fill out and return the enclosed Product Warranty Registration form. It is important for us to register your warranty and also to collect data to help us improve our products and services.
- To prevent electric shock, do not use this light in any extension cord or other outlet unless all three blades of the plug can be inserted fully. Never remove the third (ground) blade of this or any other electrical equipment. If you need to convert our 3-prong plug for a 2-prong outlet, make sure you properly ground the adaptor to the wall plate. Otherwise, the light fixture might flicker while on or off.

GENERAL GUIDELINES FOR USE

Most people use their SunBox light boxes as sources of bright light during the fall and winter months. Some people use them on overcast days at any time of year, or when their schedule or surroundings do not allow much exposure to natural sunlight. SunBoxes are also used by people working night shifts. Most people use light in the morning. If you use light too late in the day, it may disturb sleep.

To use a SunBox DL as a bright light source, the light should be in front of you, angled so that the light shines on your face, and your eyes should be open. It is not necessary to look directly into the light; most people read, eat, or watch T.V. while using their SunBox. Eyeglasses or contact lenses may be worn, but heavily tinted sunglasses will reduce the amount of light received.

Average use at the 10,000 lux distance is roughly 15-30 minutes per day. At 5,000 lux, that would be the equivalent of 40 minutes to 1 hour. At 2,500 lux, the light might be used for two to three hours. Actual time for a particular individual will vary. It usually takes some experimentation to find a routine that is right for you.

To receive: 10,000 lux your eyes must be: 10" from the unit.
5,000 lux 15"
2,500 lux 22"
